Corporal Charles Maurer Relates Pacific Experiences To Capacity Victory Loan Audience

Unit Organizer Frank Aboussafy Called Upon Coleman Citizens to Put Over 9th Victory Loan Quota In Grand Style

The Palace theatre was packed to capacity on Sunday evening as the Victory Loan audience saw in film the miraculous feats accomplished during the European war recently completed and listened to one of their own local boys, Corporal Charles Maurer, relate his experiences in the Pacific theatre of war, from his arrival in the Philippines in 1941 till his release from a Japanese prisoner-of-war camp seven weeks ago. Unit Organizer Frank Aboussafy introduced Cpl. Maurer and following the latter's address spoke to the audience on the necessity of making the 9th loan an outstanding success.

The films were very good and showed how Britain won the battle of supply when Allied troops crossed the Channel. A pipe-line of pliable material through which flowed a billion gallons of fuel per day was shown, being constructed and laid across the Channel. Also shown was the device which for the first time in history won the battle against fog over British airfields. It was pipes laid at the sides of the airfields from which gas was allowed to escape. The gas in turn was ignited and the fierce heat was sufficient to combat the moisture condensation of the fog, causing it to rise to an altitude of 100 feet or more, thus making it possible for bombers and fighters to make safe landings on their own fields. That grand old man, Winston Churchill, whom the world owes an undying debt, was featured throughout the war years as he gave his now famous speeches, of defiance, encouragement and ultimate victory to his nation and those of the British Commonwealth.

The last feature shown was the Hollywood Victory Caravan, which featured Hope, Crosby, Betty Hutton and twenty top-notch artists.

This feature called upon Canadians to keep their glorious Victory Loan intact with a smashing triumph in the 9th Victory Loan.

Corporal Maurer, the principal speaker, was introduced by Mr. Aboussafy. Cpl. Maurer remarked that he was glad to be back and that he had attended the local schools here.

He told of leaving Coleman for Chicago where he took note of the sign "Join the Marines and See the World." Having joined the Marines he was sent to San Diego and later to the Philippines in 1940. The climate in the Philippines he described as very nice with the music and dancers all that Crosby and his pictures had recorded. On Dec. 8, 1941, they heard of the Pearl Harbor attack, but at that particular moment it seemed to be a long distance off and not too much importance was given it by the men. However, as the world now knows, events moved fast and the Nips were soon landing in the Philippines. They caught the Philippines unawares and he stated that many persons were killed through lack of experience in air raids.

His unit fought courageously, but were forced to give ground. They made their last stand at Corregidor, finally surrendering to superior numbers. They remained six months in a Philippine camp. When first captured the prisoners were marched down a prominent street in the Philippines, with the Japs riding horses alongside, for all the Filipinos to see.

At the end of six months 2,000 prisoners were herded in an old cattle boat for the trip to Japan. The trip, which usually takes eight days, took twenty. Conditions were poor and the trip was not very pleasant. The men were taken to Satisfactory progress is being made in the Ninth Victory Loan. At the end of three days canvassing $37,000 had been subscribed.

East Coleman is coming through extremely well and individual purchases are in excess of those of past loans.

The first two days of the loan have been most encouraging to unit organizer Frank Aboussafy and his War Finance committee. Up to the close of Tuesday evening's business $19,550 had been subscribed.

The most surprising feature of the loan during the first two days was the very few $50 bonds that were being purchased. This is wholly due to the fact that the same monthly payments that prevailed during the past six months to buy a $50 bond are now spread over a period of twelve months in the ninth loan and one is enabled to buy a $100 bond with no increase in the monthly payment. As a result of this the majority are doubling their purchases over the eighth loan. The most common purchase to date has been the $200 amount.

Married couples are again asked to co-operate with the canvassers. Should either the husband or wife be absent when the canvassers call it would be appreciated if arrangements could be made between themselves to make the bond purchase and thus avoid having the canvassers making a call back.

Miners Returned To Work On Monday

Drumheller and Pass Fields Both Called Off the "Holiday" in Protest Against Meat Rationing System.

Coleman miners, along with their fellow workers in other Pass towns and the Drumheller field went back to the mines at midnight Sunday after a special meeting held on Saturday afternoon had resulted in the majority voting in favor of calling off the strike and resuming work.

Executive members of sub-districts 5 and 8 met at Natal on Friday evening at which time it was decided to hold special meetings in all towns so that the men could have the opportunity of voting whether or not they desired to return to work in view of the fact that the Drumheller miners had voted in favor of work.

In Coleman there were nine dissenting votes. In Bellevue there were five. Fernie, Natal and Michel voted in favor of work. Blairmore and Bellevue lost no time in voting for work.

In Coleman the men returned to work on the Sunday midnight shift. It was stated by a local union official that a representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board would be sent to the Pass to study the feasibility of setting up lunch counters at the pit-heads.

Last pay-day was the quietest in many years, in fact there was little evidence it actually was pay-day as the men had little or nothing to draw.

Four Coleman Men To Arrive Home This Week

According to a list published in the daily papers on Tuesday three Coleman men are scheduled to arrive home this week, having arrived in Halifax last week end on the Ile de France. They are Pte. Oliver Barringham, Spr. Ugo De Cecco and L.Cpl. J. Panek.

The fourth man is Earl Bowen, RCAF, whose name has been phoned to the Canadian Legion from the Calgary Canadian Legion. Earl's name, however, was not listed with the other three.

The men will reach Calgary this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

LADIES AUXILIARY, B.E.S.L. ENTERTAINED RETURNED MEN ON FRIDAY

On Friday evening the Ladies Auxiliary of the B.E.S.L. held a supper in honor of Coleman's returned veterans followed by a dance. The members' husbands were also invited and a very pleasant social evening was enjoyed.

Funeral Of Mrs. Hill Held On Friday Afternoon

Service Held at St. Alban's Church; Interment Made in Union Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Hill took place from the family residence on Fifth street on Friday afternoon. A brief service was held in the home and conducted by the Rev. W. E. Brown. The Pythian Sisters, of whom deceased had been a member, also conducted their service in the home.

Church services were conducted in St. Alban's church by the Rev. Brown, hymns sung being "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "Abide With Me."

Palbearers were W. Hirst, S. Ribas, H. Turner, W. Martland, L. Brown and J. Goulding. Interment was made in the Union cemetery.

North-West Development

A STUDY OF THE MAP OF CANADA shows that only a relatively small area in the southern part of the country is thickly settled, and that our large cities all lie close to the International boundary. Even Edmonton and Prince Albert, which are considered gateways to the North, are less than five hundred miles from the border, while Alkavik, which is 2,200 miles north of Edmonton by river, is only half way between Canada's southern and northern limits. Until a few years ago, this great area in the north-west part of the Dominion was settled largely by miners, fur traders and others interested in the rich resources of the region, but was not generally considered an attractive place in which to live. During the war, however, large scale construction of highways, air ports, and other installations for purposes of defence, demonstrated that there are many opportunities there for future development.

Rich Area Is Now Opened Up

The construction of the Canal Project, the Alaska highway, and other key transportation routes, and the building of great airfields, although all undertaken for purposes of war, will also prove useful in time of peace. It is expected that the Alaska highway will soon be extended to the city of Nome, and that it will be surfaced with tar sands from the rich deposits at Fort McMurray. In the future this highway will no doubt be used by great numbers of tourists and in addition, it will serve the area through which it passes as a commercial artery. It is expected, too, that railway services will shortly be extended from Prince George to Nome, providing further transportation facilities for the North. This region will also be an important cross-roads for trans-Polar flying in the future, and it is probable that all the airfields built during the war, will be useful for peacetime purposes.

Climate Not Too Severe

The opening of the North-West for purposes of defence has shown that there are many opportunities there for future development. The climate, at one time considered extremely severe, was found to be detrimental neither to the workers, nor to the use of modern mechanical equipment. It is expected that this region will soon become a great attraction to tourists and that there will be need for the many services required for a large tourist business. In addition, there will be work in connection with lumbering, mining, fur farming, agriculture and commercial flying. Many of the soldiers and civilians who were in the North during the war, plan to make their permanent homes there, and many others will be anxious to go to this new country in search of wider opportunities. The opening of this territory will in all probability add a new and inspiring chapter to the story of Canadian progress.

Few Toys And Little Candy For British Children's Christmas
Another austerity Christmas was in prospect for British children as toy-makers warned that while conditions might be a little better than during the war years it wouldn't be at all like the pre-war days. Apart from toys, children face the certain prospect that candy will continue under tight ration, they probably will have no oranges and there may not even be paper enough for funny hats. The Christmas tree, if one can be found—may have a few victory decorations. From the juvenile viewpoint, the paper shortage is serious as many wartime toys have been made from cardboard and similar substitutes for the "hard toys" that are little more than a memory.

Canadian Livestock

European Buyers Are Showing Interest In Horses From Canada
Lt.-Col. J. G. Robertson, agricultural commissioner for Canada, says both United Kingdom and European buyers of top quality livestock appreciate that Canada maintained and sought to improve the quality of her livestock during the war years and therefore will look to her with more interest than before 1939. "Not only has Canada maintained the quality of her herds but she also has safeguarded their health and maintained strict regulations in this regard—a most important factor in view of the damage caused by war and neglect in some parts of Europe," Col. Robertson said in an interview. A major movement of breeding stock from Canada to the United Kingdom or Europe is not an immediate prospect, however. European breeders are inclined to cling to the types of animals they have bred during the centuries and are slow to import new varieties. European buyers were showing interest in horses for sale in Canada and a test shipment now is being made to France. Perhaps 200 animals would complete the test and French authorities would then decide what additional numbers were required. One estimate was that France would need about 35,000 to meet all her requirements. Holland, which suffered most severely during the German occupation, already has ordered 5,000 horses from Canada.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—Where should a defective ration book be taken for adjustment?
A.—A defective ration book should be taken to your local ration board.

Q.—Why is unsweetened canned fruit rationed?
A.—Unsweetened canned fruit is rationed because it is in very short supply and is required by certain invalids who could not be sure of obtaining supplies if it were unrationed.

Q.—I have a tenant whose rent has been fixed by a rentals appraiser to include, amongst other things, electric current. I find the tenant is very wasteful of the electric light and I wish to discontinue supplying him with electricity. May I do this?
A.—Before a landlord may, without the tenant's consent, discontinue supplying the heat, light or hot or cold water he agreed to supply for the rental charged, he must obtain a permit from the rentals appraiser and follow that up by applying promptly for a reduction in rent, owing to the decrease in service.

Q.—I find it very difficult to discover how much meat I can buy with one coupon or with one token. Is there any way I can be sure?
A.—There is a chart showing the value of both coupons and tokens on display in every meat dealer's shop.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlets "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices, mentioning the name of the paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Answer To Last Week's Puzzle

Flax Crop

Considerable Decrease In Production Over Last Year

It is estimated by an official of the Dominion Experimental Farms that the flax yield, for the year ending in 1939, will drop to 7,387,000 bushels. This figure does not include the flax yield but production of this type of flax is not expected to exceed 350,000 bushels. This would give a total flax production for this year of approximately 7,747,000 bushels compared with around 10,000,000 bushels in 1944.

In 1943, flax production reached around 18,000,000 bushels, the high peak since 1936. The principal reason for the rapid increase in the growing of flax during 1943 was that the government was subsidizing the farmer and buying flax from him at from $2.25 to $2.75 a bushel. This resulted in farmers sowing flax crops instead of wheat.

The estimated production for this year, however, is still considerably above that for 1939, when Canada produced only 2,000,000 bushels and had to import 1,000,000. Our production had so increased by 1943 that Canada was able to export around 8,600,000 bushels.

Dramatic Rescues

The Story Of Two American Women Who Escaped To Manila

Two American women have reached Manila after dramatic rescues by guerrilla troops. Mrs. Herman Kluge of Schenectady, N.Y., was hidden by Hugao tribesmen in the mountains of northern Luzon for 41 months while the Japanese searched for her with a price of 35,000 pesos ($18,500) on her head.

Mrs. Helen J. McQuaid of Los Angeles spent three years in Japanese prisons before being "kidnapped" by Filipino soldiers just before she was about to be beheaded.

The Japanese chased Mrs. Kluge from village to village in a 200-mile circuit. They wanted her and they wanted her husband, an American lumberman who had become a guerrilla captain. He made life miserable for Japanese truck drivers and convoys guards with frequent ambushes along the trails.

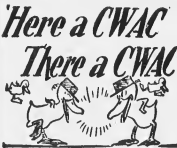

Kluge surrendered when the Japanese threatened to kill every inhabitant of a village near his headquarters. Then he underwent months of torture and finally disappeared behind the grim walls of Fort Santiago.

Five hundred and twenty-five musical compositions have been written about Abraham Lincoln, at least 75 of which were funeral marches and memorial hymns.

In observance of Canada's Labor Day, members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps stationed in the United Kingdom, forgathered at Aldershot, England, for an All-England CWAC Sports Day. This was the first large field and track meet held by the CWAC since their arrival in the U.K. More than 350 CWACs from all parts of England were in attendance. Highlight of the afternoon was a march past, with the salute taken by Lt.-General P. J. Montague, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., M.C., V.D., Chief of Staff at Canadian Military headquarters. With Gen. Montague on the saluting base, were Maj.-Gen. E. G. Weekes, M.C., M.M.; Maj.-Gen. D. C. Spry, D.S.O., and Lt.-Col. Isabel Cronyn, Deputy Director of C.W.A.C. Overseas. Music was supplied by the C.W.A.C. Pipe and Military Bands, which made a special tour from Holland for the occasion. Outstanding athlete for the day was Pte. Doris Millard of Fort Burwell, Ont., who won the 50 yard dash, the softball throw, the 75 yard dash and the running broad jump. Prizes were provided by the Auxiliary Services and presented by Lt.-Gen. Montague. Cup for the winning team was awarded to Headquarters Canadian Reinforcement Unit. During the evening several dances were arranged at various units in the Aldershot area.

Western winners of the track and field events were as follows: Fifty yard dash—Pte. E. G. Baunel, Arch-erwell, Sask. Running high jump—Pte. Shirley Rennie, Abbey Sask.; Pte. Thelma Clyde, Neepawa, Man.; and Pte. Dorothy Allen, Esterhazy, Sask. Novelty event—Pte. H. Kompan, Calgary, Alta. 75 yard dash—Sgt. M. A. Leckie, Calgary, Alta. 200 yard relay—Sgt. M. A. Using Tubular Steel

British Shoe Company Has Invented New Type Of Heel
Revolutionary experiments in plastics by a British boot and shoe company have resulted in discoveries which are going to strike a new fashion note in footwear, reveals the London Sunday paper "Reynolds News". The company has invented and patented shoes equipped with heels made of tubular steel. The effect of the new heel is one of smart, modern simplicity. From the wearer's point of view it is lighter, stronger and more springy than the orthodox heel of wood or leather, and can be produced in a variety of heights and colors.

CANADA TO BOOST TRADE ABROAD AS WELL AS TO BUY FROM OTHER COUNTRIES

OTTAWA.—The trade department headed by Hon. J. A. Macdonnell has become a double purpose organization with the development of the import division now well under way. The department's aim will be to continue to boost the sale of Canadian goods abroad but also to buy important emphasis on increasing the purchases from customer countries.

This emphasis on imports is a new departure and applies not only to the departmental officials in Ottawa but also to the 34 trade commissioners around the world. The Canadian Press has been informed the number soon will be increased to more than 50.

These commissioners will be instructed to explain to the empire and foreign countries that Canada is not only ready to provide, in many instances, credits with which to pay for Canadian goods but also is ready as a good trader country to increase the purchases of their goods. The minister last week announced the commissioners from Latin America will meet in Ottawa to discuss the possibilities of greater trade in South America.

The letters which have poured into the department since the import division was announced have convinced trade officials Canadian people generally are alive to the importance of buying goods from other countries in payment for Canadian goods.

With the public evidently favorable to increasing imports three important decisions confront the government:

1. What to do about price ceilings when they interfere with imports.
2. Should Canada's 300-shp merchant marine be used to develop trade routes or be sold.
3. What reply should the government give when a Canadian manufacturer says he can increase employment if he is given an increase in the tariff.

Trade officials have been told that the United Kingdom cannot lay down many lines of woollens and other goods, particularly men's clothing, at prices that will be below Canada's price ceilings even if they received the same subsidies extended to Canadian manufacturers.

The best information from British trade experts, it is learned, is that when United Kingdom industry has been reorganized on a peace basis and proposed efficiency measures have been introduced, they may be able to get under the price ceilings but they will not be before next summer.

Many South American countries find themselves in the same position as Britain with the price ceilings an embargo against getting into the Canadian market. It will be for the government to decide whether it will wait until other countries reduce their costs or take steps either to raise the ceilings or the subsidies.

GERMAN ROCKETS

British Engineers Reconstruct Old Parts At Experiments

LONDON.—British engineers and artillery experts have assembled from old parts, two German "V-2" rockets which they fired at a target 150 miles away. The two reconstructed V-2s were fired into the North Sea during the first week of October. One fell within three miles of the target point. The Ministry of Information called the experiment a "complete success".

THE HOUSING SHORTAGE IN WESTERN CANADA PROVING TO BE A HEAVY PROBLEM

OTTAWA.—Wartime Housing Limited has 8,750 low rental houses completed, under construction or in the final stages of negotiation, across Canada, according to an official of that company.

"Altogether our program for 1945 calls for 7,500 houses," he said. "A total of 5,600 are now under construction contract and 100 homes should be ready for occupancy in each of the cities of Winnipeg, Regina and Saskatoon, by Dec. 1."

Last year, 1,250 were completed and rented to veterans and their families from coast to coast. However, most of these houses were in eastern Canada, he pointed out, and the only western city where any were completed was Vancouver.

"It is a fight all the way to get labor and material," he said. When asked which was responsible for the greatest delay, he replied that one was just about as bad as the other. The fact that Wartime Housing Limited had a priority rating on materials didn't make very much when they were in such short supply.

"My understanding is that the production of building materials has in-

Countries Must Agree On Regulations For International Air Service

MONTREAL.—H. J. Symington, president of Trans-Canada Air Lines and president of the International Air Transport Association, said that no international air service "worthy of the name" could be established "if in each and every country, different regulations are set up dependent upon a multitude of bi-lateral agreements."

Mr. Symington spoke at a dinner held by the Montreal board of trade to delegates of the I.A.T.A. and the provisional international civil aviation organization, both of which were in session here.

He said that he was speaking "in my personal capacity," and that he was against bi-lateral or tri-lateral bargaining. "We are seeing much too much of it," Experience had shown and was showing that a proper international air service could not be set up by bi-lateral agreements.

GERMAN POLITICS

People In Germany Take Little Interest After Nazi Rule

LUEBBECKE, Germany.—Under stern restrictions laid down by the British control commission, several political parties now are trying to build up organizations in the British zone of occupied Germany but their leaders find the German people generally apathetic.

After more than 12 years in the Nazi political strait-jacket and faced with immediate pressing problems of daily existence, the Germans have little inclination to become keenly interested in politics. Political authorities on the control commission say it will take months for party organizations to gain much ground in the British zone.

BUTTER IS SCARCE

OTTAWA.—Canada could not even begin thinking about unrationed butter until "next spring," J. P. Nadeau, deputy dairy products administrator of the prices board said. The best that could be hoped for would be to get through the winter on the summer ration of seven ounces, he added, recalling that last year the ration was cut to six ounces during the winter months.

THE HOUSING SHORTAGE IN WESTERN CANADA PROVING TO BE A HEAVY PROBLEM

OTTAWA.—Wartime Housing Limited has 8,750 low rental houses completed, under construction or in the final stages of negotiation, across Canada, according to an official of that company.

"Altogether our program for 1945 calls for 7,500 houses," he said. "A total of 5,600 are now under construction contract and 100 homes should be ready for occupancy in each of the cities of Winnipeg, Regina and Saskatoon, by Dec. 1."

Last year, 1,250 were completed and rented to veterans and their families from coast to coast. However, most of these houses were in eastern Canada, he pointed out, and the only western city where any were completed was Vancouver.

"It is a fight all the way to get labor and material," he said. When asked which was responsible for the greatest delay, he replied that one was just about as bad as the other. The fact that Wartime Housing Limited had a priority rating on materials didn't make very much when they were in such short supply.

"My understanding is that the production of building materials has in-

YOKOHAMA.—Lt.-Gen. Shigeru Sawada, accused of complicity in the executions of some of the United States carrier plane fliers who attacked Tokyo in 1942, was placed in Omori prison camp along with other top-ranking Japanese suspected of war crimes.

THANKS FOR AID

London Paper Praises The Dominions For Contribution Of Food

LONDON.—The Daily Express in an editorial headed "Empire Aid" praised the Dominions for their food contributions, saying "give thanks in every home in Britain today for our kinsmen in Canada, Australia and New Zealand."

The editorial continued: "They have put forth great efforts to send us meat, butter for our bread and cheese along with it. The rations are to be restored before the worst of the winter sets in, thanks to the hearts and imagination of these Dominions."

"We are proud to remember that in 1940 Britain stood alone. When we say that we mean that we stood alone with the countries of the empire. Without them the stand couldn't have been made."

"So today Britain faces hardships in confidence, fortified by their splendid aid and encouragement."

REPORT DENIED

The Indonesian Republic Has Not Declared War On The Netherlands

LONDON.—The free Indonesia radio said the "Indonesian republic" of Java had declared completely false all reports that it had declared war on the Netherlands.

Meanwhile the all-India radio reported British reinforcements had landed on the rich Dutch East Indies to cope with native disturbances.

The all-India radio said the two British brigades on Java would be built up to a full division. Lt.-Gen. Sir William J. Slim of the southeast Asia command was reported to have advised military plans for dealing with the situation on Java.

U.S. ARMY NEWSPAPER

LONDON.—The London edition of the Stars and Stripes, United States army newspaper, went to press for the last time recently. The Times, in whose building the army newspaper has been published for three years, issued a statement declaring that the servicemen's newspaper "was more than an example of reverse lend-lease." Throughout its career it has been a striking example of Anglo-American co-operation.

DOGS TRAINED FOR BLIND

VEITS—Member and student of the "Seeing Eye Dog" school, Det. Johnson, trainer, and a prize German shepherd, "Rinty", have a rest. The school for canines was organized by dog lovers in Toronto, Ont., and is called the Canadian Dog Training club. Its object is to present a seeing eye dog to blind Canadian servicemen free of charge.

HISTORIC INDICTMENT OF THE MAJOR WAR CRIMINALS WHO WILL FACE TRIAL NEXT MONTH

BERLIN.—Humanity's case against the bloody Hitler regime was set forth in a historic indictment of the major German war criminals who will be tried next month in Nuremberg.

The massive, 24,000-word catalogue of Nazi tortures and persecution that claimed 10,000,000 dead was filed with the international war crimes in Berlin. It will be presented to the jailed members of the Nazi hierarchy in their cells in Nuremberg.

Specifically the indictment named 24 survivors of the Nazi government, industrial and military hierarchy. In addition it asked conviction as "criminals groups" of seven Nazi organizations, including leading members of the German general staff and high command.

Heading the list of 24 is Reichsmarshal Herman Wilhelm Goering, the "No. 2 Nazi". Hitler is not charged in the indictment because of some indication that he died in the ruins of the city where his cohorts once struggled with him.

In seeking the death of Goering, Rudolf Hess, Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and the others the Allies hope to emphasize a new principle in a future code of conduct for mankind—that conspiring to wage war is a crime against humanity.

In addition to the general staff and the high command the other organizations named included the Gestapo, the S.S. (Elite Guard) troops of the Nazi party, the Storm Troopers, S.D. or secret service, Sicherheitsdienst, the German cabinet, and the leadership corps of the Nazi party.

A spokesman for the United States prosecutor, Justice Robert H. Jackson, said the general staff and high command would be considered "as one entity, with a choice representative segment specifically indicted."

Those named in the indictment are: Alfred Jodl, colonel-general and chief of army staff; Wilhelm Keitel, field marshal and chief of the high command; Karl Doenitz, grand admiral and commander-in-chief of the German navy; Erich Raeder, grand admiral and former commander of the navy.

Indictment of the individual German general staff officers as war criminals resulted from American demands. Russia, Great Britain and France opposed the action on the grounds soldiers are responsible only for carrying out orders.

Justice Jackson insisted that aggressive warfare was constituted an international crime, and finally won over two of the countries. One power, the identity of which is secret, refused to agree. The 3-1-1 decision, however, was sufficient to carry Justice Jackson's point.

The Berlin ceremony in which the indictment was presented to the court was simple but impressive. It lasted for only an hour, and took place in the ornate chamber of the former Berlin superior court, now the Allied control building.

Standing before the two oak doors of the great white-walled chamber a court attendant in black coat and striped trousers intoned in English, French, Russian and German the word "Silence". The entire proceedings were translated into the four languages.

The doors opened, with Maj.-Gen. I. Nikitchenko of the Soviet Union and his alternate, T. A. Bolshkov, leading the delegation of judges.

They were followed by the French judge, Henry Donnedieu de Viret, and his alternate, Robert Falco; the American Francis Biddle and his alternate, Judge John Parker; Lord Justice Lawrence of Britain and his alternate, Justice Norman Birkett.

Gen. Nikitchenko, seated himself behind a long table, flanked on the right by the Americans and on the left by the French and British judges.

Facing them were the prosecutors. The Britons wore formal attire of striped trousers, black coats, bowing collars. The others wore dark street suits.

The judges rose one by one and made their declarations.

Most of the 24 individual defendants already were in Allied custody at Nuremberg, where the actual trial will be held. They include Reichsmarshal Herman Goering, former Deputy Fuehrer Rudolf Hess, and former Chief of the German High Command Marshal Wilhelm Keitel.

In the big, ornate chamber which formerly housed the Berlin superior court, history's first international military tribunal set to work after a brief opening ceremony conducted in four languages.

Maj.-Gen. I. Nikitchenko, chief judge for the Soviet Union, presided. After swearing in members of the tribunal, he announced the court was in session. Then the prosecutors presented the indictment.

POPPY DAY

Three Reasons Why We Should Wear A Poppy This November 11th

This November 11th, for the first time in seven Novembers, we can gather together and pay tribute to those who have paid for our Peace with their lives, without the clouds of war hanging menacingly above us. Two world wars have been fought to preserve our right as a free people—let us not forget the high price that has been paid for our freedom, by the young people of two generations.

Therefore, the first reason for wearing a Poppy this November 11th is to show our appreciation of the sacrifices made by our War dead.

But, let us not forget those who have paid for our peace with a limb, their eyesight, or who are suffering from some other disability as a result of their service. The poppies and wreaths sold by the Canadian Legion are made by these disabled veterans in the Veterans' Shop at Christie Street hospital. Your purchase of a Poppy benefits them directly, and reveals to them your appreciation of their services and sacrifices. Thus, the second reason why you should wear a Poppy this November 11th.

The third reason is the most evident; in every community there are boys and girls returning from the theatres of war to take their place in the civilian world. In honor of their brilliant service and the splendid job they have done, let us all wear a Poppy.

SELL MOTOR LAUNCHES

MONTREAL.—Seven Fairmile motor launches have been sold to Hamill Limited at Vancouver, it was announced by war assets corporation. No price was specified.

TWO HUNDRED SPECIALISTS WILL TREK ACROSS THE NORTH ENGAGED IN WEATHER RESEARCH

OTTAWA.—Two hundred specialists together with airmen in a supply squadron will trek 3,000 miles across the top of Canada to continue weather experiments launched last year in British Columbia and Saskatchewan, it was officially announced here.

Earlier an official had said that 4,000 troops and airmen would participate in the expedition to test endurance of men and machines in a three months manoeuvre beginning February 1.

Later, however, it was stated the expedition would be confined to 200 specialist troops, scientists, meteorologists and medical men but that it was quite likely a larger force—containing several thousand men—would conduct an Arctic scheme at some later date.

The cold weather test—called Muskox—is a successor to the other tests called Eskimo and polar bear which saw more than 3,000 men engaged.

The expedition, under the direction of Col. J. T. Wilson, director of operational research at defence headquarters, will concentrate November 1 at Camp Shilo, Man., for the initial training. It will move to the starting point—Churchill on Hudson Bay—February 1.

The following three months will see it push through the Arctic circle rim across the northwest territories to Fort Simpson and follow the Alaskan highway to Edmonton, the terminal point of the exercise.

An air supply train will operate from Winnipeg initially and then switch to northern emergency fields to drop food and supplies to the column of troops punching through the Arctic wilderness on the latest types of snowmobiles.

"This research is not being made to provide information needed immediately. In fact Canada may never need the information. Some of the cold weather research as a matter of fact will be put to commercial use—especially that having to do with the operation of machinery and aircraft in intense cold weather."

Most of the men and scientists will accompany the troops and their research will be completed with that of the military observers to complete the picture of cold weather operations.

The big trek—supplies from the air under conditions of assimilated warfare—will cut through hundreds of miles of the northern wastes to the Alaskan highway and then proceed to Edmonton, research as a matter of fact.

Specialty selected volunteers from the interim army will begin training at Camp Shilo, Man., next month.

Report on Meat Strike

Leslie Cameron, Ashcroft, BC, chairman of the Council of Canadian Beef Producers, stated in Calgary this week, "It is doubtful if the Canadian public is aware of the full consequences of a strike in the meat packing industry. The nation's overseas meat program is in jeopardy, the consumer stands the chance of a greatly lessened meat supply and the ranchers and farmers and their families on Canada's 700,000 farms stand to lose heavily financially as the threatened strike, should it occur, will hit the producer at a time when they ordinarily market a heavy volume of livestock. Because of the producers' concern and especially the beef producers' concern a request from the packers and the union for facts and views has gone forward. The entire situation will be thoroughly canvassed at the Council's meetings."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Need Bicycle Racks

There is an immediate need for the construction of bicycle racks at the high school. Twenty to thirty young men and women are cycling to school every day and park their machines alongside the school building and alongside the buildings on the opposite side of the street. Whenever a strong gust of wind hits these machines one or two are almost certain to fall to the ground. Four machines were lying in the middle of the sidewalk on Tuesday.

We suggest to the school board that a bicycle rack to accommodate about thirty machines be constructed alongside the west side of the high school. Such a rack would help to make neater the appearance of the high school and would eliminate the nuisance of machines lying on the sidewalk.

Cadet Training

A move is afoot in Coleman to organize an army cadet corps. The purpose of this organization, should it be successfully established here, would be to train the youths in various courses such as fieldcraft, small arms training, first aid, woodcraft, field engineering, etc. In addition there would be physical training and most important of all the training of the youths in citizenship and leadership.

Regardless of the assets that a town might possess its progress will undoubtedly be hindered should it fail to have leaders and citizens imbued with pride of home and love of country.

The various courses would undoubtedly absorb the interest of a great many youths who might not be athletically inclined and thus provide a new field of activity for them.

Youngsters Show Sportsmanship

Youngsters have shown good sportsmanship during the past summer in and around the new curling rink. Enquiry revealed that an inspection of the roof showed where rocks had done damage to very little of the white top asbestos covering.

In fact, youngsters in town and district must have been on their best behavior this summer as no reports of damage have been heard. The skating rink seems to have been left entirely alone and the repair bills amounting to some hundreds of dollars in lumber and electrical equipment in past years are not to be experienced this year.

Civic leaders can best control juvenile delinquency by promoting sports and other activities. Winter is drawing near and it is to be expected the rink will be a hive of activity. It is to be hoped that the proposed army cadet corps will be organized and operating within a few weeks. Badminton will probably be organized. All these activities absorb the community's youth and provide an outlet for their energies and so keep them out of mischief.

Loan Off to Good Start

Fears are rapidly diminishing that the recently concluded strike might cut serious inroads into the Ninth Victory Bond drive. The citizens in the first two days came through in grand style and bought almost $20,000. As a result of the loan being over a twelve months period the vast majority have doubled their Eighth Loan purchases. The most surprising feature in the first two days' sales has been the very few $50 purchases.

It is being proved beyond doubt that the local public is now "savings conscious" and many who now possess savings in the form of bonds quite frankly admit that had they not invested in bonds they would never have saved a penny. They are thrilled with the fact that they now possess a healthy savings account and they have every reason to be. They can still increase these savings during the next three weeks by purchasing increased amounts of Ninth Victory bonds.

W.P.T.B. Official Met Operators And Union On Wednesday

Held Group Discussion on
Feasibility of Inaugurating
Lunch Counters at Mines.

On Wednesday morning Mr. Charles Bryant, Wartime Prices and Trade Board official from Lethbridge, met mine operators from Fernie to Bellevue at the International office. Also present were the secretaries of all unions from Fernie to Bellevue.

It is understood that the main topic of discussion was the feasibility of inaugurating lunch counters at the mines and thus eliminate the source of trouble which caused a three weeks strike among nine workers in Alberta and British Columbia.

It has been revealed that the mine operators and union secretaries were in full accord that the suggestion of the WPTB to establish lunch counters at the mine heads was immediately. It was suggested to Mr. Bryant that he advise the WPTB to adopt the same system that was practiced in regard to tea. In this instance a sheet of extra coupons was issued to the miners.

WPTB officials were interviewing operators and union officials in all mining fields in order that they might properly advise the Board officials what measures would be acceptable to the miners.

Fifty Youths Attended Army Cadet Meeting Last Thursday

Last Thursday evening in the Community hall, Captain J. M. Kerr, of Military District 13, addressed approximately fifty youths who had attended a meeting to hear an outline of the studies included in an army cadet corps program.

In addition to outlining the program Capt. Kerr also had along with him several reels of film which featured cadets taking various parts of the program.

Almost all the boys signified their willingness to join the Coleman Cadet Corps once it starts to organize.

Lieut. M. W. Cooke, who is greatly interested in the organization of a cadet corps, is endeavoring to secure a local sponsor. It is expected he will be successful and he plans on making an announcement to the young boys of Coleman within the next week or two. Boys within the ages of 12 to 18 years are eligible to join the cadet corps.

Your Name Can Go
Down in History!

It's a fact and this gate of opportunity is opening to every man, woman and child in Coleman and district.

Here's how:

During the Ninth Victory Loan campaign every individual in this district who signs an application for a Victory Loan bond will have that signature affixed to Coleman's "Document of Victory" which will be kept as a part of the town's permanent war record.

The great Allied Supreme Commanders have appended their signatures to the documents of surrender from our enemies and now the people who could not sign the documents of surrender have the opportunity of signing the "Documents of Victory," and supporting our forces in peace and helping them obtain the rewards they have so gallantly won.

When you have signed your name, it will automatically go into the history of Coleman's outstanding record in the nine Victory loan drives.

Your children and grandchildren will have access to this emblazoned history and proudly gaze on your signature knowing that you carried your share of Canada's burden not only during the years of bloodshed and destruction, but also on into peacetime so that promises made to servicemen could be fulfilled.

MANPOWER CONTROLS

In a statement issued Tuesday, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell said that there appeared to be uncertainty in some quarters on the subject of what civilian manpower regulations are still in force. The labor minister pointed out that changes effected in the regulations at the middle of August in some cases into effect only on Sept. 17.

To clarify the situation, the minister summarized the principal controls still in effect as follows:

In the case of a proposed separation from employment, either employer or employee must give the other seven days' notice in writing, except where employment is specifically exempt from this rule, as in the case of the construction industry. No change has occurred in the seven-day rule recently, and men and women are both still covered.

Male workers must secure permits from national employment offices before seeking or accepting employment, and employers cannot engage male employees without permit.

Female workers may seek and accept employment either with or without permit, but where a permit is not secured before, either the employer or the female employee must secure a permit within three days of being engaged.

Employers wanting to advertise for male employees must list their orders with the employment office, and have applicants referred to the employment office. Men wanting to advertise for jobs must secure permission from the employment office. Advertising in regard to the employment of women is not now controlled.

Labor exit permits must still be secured from the employment office by anyone wanting to leave Canada and intending to take a job outside the country.

Employers in industry and commerce must list all vacant positions, whether for men or women, with the nearest national employment office.

Unemployed men are still required to register at the nearest employment office if unemployed for a period of seven days.

Regulations regarding technical personnel are unchanged.

Restrictions on men leaving the farms are still in effect.

Mr. Mitchell pointed out that the "freeze orders" have now been lifted. Male employees do not need special permission to leave their present employment.

The labor minister said that a simplified form for reporting the engagement of women has now been devised, and may be secured by employers from the nearest national employment office. This form is the one to be used by employers for reporting the fact that a woman has been hired for a job with the employer.

It will be recognized, Hon. Mr. Mitchell said, that in large part manpower control have now been removed. Those which continue will be removed just as soon as possible, but I think the public will appreciate that in this unsettled period of reconversion the controls which are still in effect are very necessary to assist the labor department, chiefly through the national employment service, in working toward a continuance of a high level of employment.

COLLINS TO PLAY FOR VANCOUVER JUNIORS

Ron Collins, smart young hockey player, will leave today for Vancouver where he is scheduled to play this winter with a Vancouver team.

BIG BEND HIGHWAY CLOSED FOR SEASON

Motor traffic on the Big Bend section of the Trans-Canada highway, between Golden and Revelstoke, B.C., will be suspended for the winter season on Oct. 31.

Notification to this effect has been received from B.C. travel authorities by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

The approach of the winter season and heavy snowfall makes it necessary to close the Big Bend road.

Motorists travelling east or west will be enabled to ship their cars over the CPR between Golden and Revelstoke and thus continue their motor journeys from either of those two points.

Coast travel authorities also point out that owing to the likelihood of heavy snow between Golden and Field, motorists eastbound would be well advised to ship their cars from either Golden or Revelstoke to Lake Louise, Alberta, where they can again travel over an open highway.

Heavy traffic has been reported this season on the scenic highway between Lake Louise and Jasper National Park. There has been no intimation as to when motor travel will end for the season on this road.

A Message TO FARMERS from a Farmer

H. H. Hannam is President and Managing Director of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. In a message addressed to farmers, Mr. Hannam says:

"The farmer who is wise will look ahead and plan carefully.

"And in these years when prices and returns are more satisfactory than they have been, when labor is scarce, when farm machinery is restricted, when building materials are not readily available, a good course to follow would be that of putting a substantial share of the year's earnings into sound securities such as Victory Bonds. These reserves will not only provide a measure of insurance against difficulties in less favorable years, but at such time when supplies are favorable and costs will probably be lower, their purchasing power will be greater and return from them correspondingly increased.

"We believe this is good planning from the farmer's standpoint. At the same time, it is the very best of planning from the standpoint of the Nation."

T.B. Questions And Answers

Q. What is the difference between tuberculosis infection and tuberculosis?

A. When tubercle bacilli enter the body they produce a hypersensitivity to their product—tuberculin. As long as the germs remain localized and do not produce advancing disease, the condition is spoken of as infection. This is detectable by means of the tuberculin test.

Tuberculosis is a disease which is manifested by symptoms at some time, or by definite evidence of abnormal changes. Strictly speaking, both conditions are abnormal and may be called disease, but in infection the area is very small and the patient is not ill. Infection may go on to disease.

Q. What is meant by reinfection?
A. The first or primary infection having been overcome or healed, a second or subsequent infection has taken place.

Q. What is the origin of reinfection?

A. These infections may take place from a dormant first infection in the lungs or lymph nodes, called endogenous. Or the infection may come from without the body, i.e., from some other tuberculous person. The latter is called exogenous infection.

NATIONAL EMPLOYMENT SERVICE—WOMEN

Although female workers are now free to seek and accept employment without a permit from the national employment service, there has been no change in the regulations requiring employers or employees to give seven days' notice, in writing, of a proposed separation from employment.

Some women, however, are not quite sure as to what should be done with their copy of separation notice from their last job when entering new employment. Frequently they will present them to their new employers. In these cases, the new employer should forward the copy to the local office of the national employment service.

Employers hiring female help must notify the local office within three days of their being engaged. A simplified form for reporting the engagement of women has been devised, and may be obtained from the national employment service office.

With regard to recent relaxation of many selective service controls, a few of the principal regulations which remain will be removed as soon as possible. It should be appreciated, however, that Canada is passing through an extremely difficult reconversion period and the retention of a few controls is necessary until industry is established on a full, peace time basis, and a healthy level of employment has been achieved.

EMPLOYERS PLAN FOR PROBLEMS OF VETERANS' REINSTATEMENT

A recent study of the plans of industrial and commercial firms across Canada for the re-establishment in employment of former employees who are now being discharged from the services indicates that Canadian employers are going far beyond the requirements of the compulsory reinstatement in civil employment act, according to Arthur MacNamara, federal deputy minister of labor. This act, passed in 1942, accompanied by the reinstatement regulations of 1945, guarantees re-employment rights of Canadians who served in the armed forces of Canada or any of the United Nations, their Merchant Marine and the Corps of Civilian Fire Fighters in the United Kingdom.

The attitude of the Canadian employer, he stated, is not "How much am I required to do?" but rather, "Now how much more can I do?"

The reinstatement of the war veteran is recognized by employers everywhere as the "number one" personnel problem of postwar reconstruction. The deputy minister emphasized the delicacy of the problems the employer had to face in readjusting his staff to fulfill with minimum dislocation the obligation to provide jobs for those who left to enlist. In this connection many employers of veterans' problems for the guidance of their civilian wartime personnel including foremen and senior executives.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
OCTOBER 28THE INFLUENCE OF CHRISTIAN
HOMES
(World's Temperance Sunday)

Memory Selection: As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord, Joshua 24:15.

Lesson: Acts 16:13-15; 1 Timothy 1:16; 2 Timothy 1:16; Titus 2:14; 1 Peter 3:1-2.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 101.

The Text Explained With Comments.

The influence of Timothy's Christian home, 2 Timothy 1:16; 3:14, 15. The first two verses of this letter are Paul's salutation. Here he gives his credentials as an apostle, addresses Timothy as "my beloved child," and involves upon him grace, mercy and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

In the next three verses Paul expresses his affection for Timothy. He thanks God whom, following his forefathers' example, serves with a pure conscience, that he has unceasingly remembered Timothy in his prayers. He longs earnestly to see him and be filled with joy, and he recalls Timothy's tears at their last parting, tears which showed how true was "his son's" affection for him.

Paul recalls Timothy's genuine faith which he had learned from Lois his grandmother and Eunice his mother. Further on in his letter Paul counsels Timothy to abide in the things he had learned in the home and be assured of. He knew from whom he had learned them—from his mother and grandmother, and from Paul himself, 2:2—and reminds him that they had stood the test of time, for he had known the sacred writings from a babe (he could not recall the time when he had not known them), the sacred writings which were able to make him wise unto salvation, if continued with faith in Christ Jesus.

At his ordination by the laying on of hands Timothy had received the gift of God (that spiritual equipment which had been given him for pastoral service). This Paul recalls to Timothy's mind and bids him stir up the gift—as one would the embers of a fire which are in danger of dying out. Timothy was then pastor of the church at Ephesus, and he must exercise his gift in order to increase it; it is a question of use or loss.

Temperance and Other Virtues Enjoined by Paul, Titus 2:1-4. Paul counsels Timothy to speak the things which befit the sound doctrine.

In order that aged men be temperate, grave, sober-minded, sound in faith, in love, in patience.

GIVES THAT IMPRESSION

Everywhere you look there's another bunch of strikes, says Dave Boone, in the New York Sun. A stranger on this planet would get the idea the American working man was the most abused, overworked, underpaid, downtrodden, persecuted, victimized, flimflammed, undermanned, underprivileged fellow in all history. And that all employers were combinations of Simon Legree, Gargantua, and Jesse James.

WORLD COMES BACK

The world has come back to the Chateau Laurier. For 10 years before the war the big terrestrial globe stood in the hotel lobby and guests frequently twirled it and studied it. Two years ago, the Minister of National Defence, on behalf of the King, asked Robert Somerville, general manager of Canadian National Hotels, if he could borrow it for the duration of the war. Now it has come back.

The richest silver-lead deposits in the world are located at the Broken Hill mines in Australia. 2643

DON'T THROW IT AWAY! It might be of some use. Take the above for instance. On the left is an old coat, the cloth of which is not worn out. Therefore, scissors, a pattern, some thread and a little time to spare could result in the creation on the right (above). The war might be over but the problem of catching up with textile supplies is still a serious one. That is why the Remake Centres of the Prices Board Consumer Branch are working harder than ever across Canada to make over old clothes into new ones.

Weather Forecaster

Future Air Travel Will Be Made Safer By Radar

Radar, in the role of weather forecaster, is going to help notably the safety of future air travel. Thanks to war-born discoveries, the Weatherman of the future literally can settle comfortably behind his crystal ball and tell at a glance the locality, extent, intensity, speed and direction of thunderstorms and related disturbances within a 100-mile radius.

The initial discovery which put A.A.F. meteorologists on the trail of radar's uses in charting treacherous weather conditions came by accident early in 1942. A network of radar stations had been built up in the Caribbean to detect the approach of any hostile aircraft or surface vessels bent on attacking the Panama Canal.

Technicians had noticed hazy irregular splashes on the radar scope which couldn't be traced to any known "targets". Then one stumbled on the coincidence that the location of those splashes on the scope corresponded with geographic areas over which storms or swollen rain clouds were hovering.

March Of Ideas

No Nation Can Branch And Maintain Prosperity Alone

To face forward means to achieve a new, a larger and a higher view of the meaning of a nation, and of that feeling of affection for it and devotion to it which is patriotism. Nations can no longer be conceived as ends in themselves. The march of ideas and the progress of civilization have made them members of a commonwealth of nations, with all the obligations, duties and opportunities of citizenship in that commonwealth. The last place to look for security is in armament and the last way to seek for prosperity is through isolation. National problems grow constantly fewer and more intensely local. International problems steadily grow more and more numerous and of increasingly commanding importance. No nation can reach and maintain prosperity alone. To prosper, a nation must quickly learn that the whole world is now economically and politically interdependent.—New York Times.

Won Quick Trip

Corporal Had Perfect Alibi But It Works Only Once

Latest repatriation story goes the rounds concerns an unidentified corporal who yelled from the dock just before a troop transport pulled out for home: "I won't get on board! She's not safe. There are too many men aboard already. I won't get on that ship."

Non-commissioned officers bundled him aboard, still protesting. The sequel came next day at sea when draft officers found one too many aboard.

It was the corporal, but he had a perfect alibi.

Repatriation officials say the ruse won't work a second time.

Worry And Health

According to Health Magazine worrying about sickness, or any other misfortune, is profitable only to the point where it induces you to do something about it. If the worrying goes beyond that point, or does not induce any corrective action, it is absolutely fruitless. Then it is likely to end up in something about which you will have real cause for worry.

There are about 142 carats to the ounce.

Universal Suffrage

In The Next Russian Parliamentary Elections

The Supreme Soviet has put into effect a law providing for direct, secret, universal suffrage in the Russian parliamentary elections Feb. 10. The law, announced prominently in all Moscow newspapers, emphasized the "democratic character" of the Soviet system. It affirmed the eligibility of all citizens, "regardless of racial or national origin, faith, sex, residence, property holdings or former occupation."

While the law in effect was a restatement of the first election decree under the existing constitution of 1937, it appeared to broaden the scope of balloting considerably.

In the first 29 years after the Bolshevik revolution certain categories of persons lost their right to vote. Among them were clergymen, former merchants, kulaks and kulaks.

Under the new constitution these categories were granted the franchise. Now clergymen not only have the right to vote but can be elected to the Supreme Soviet, the highest legislative body.

The only fundamental difference between the 1937 and present election law is the new provision that candidates must be at least 23 years old. Formerly they were eligible at 18. The voting age remained 18.

REG'LAR FELLERS—The Man Higher Up

HOUSING SHORTAGE

Greatest Building Boom In History Is Under Way

Canada's critical housing shortage hinges on a bitter race between demand and supply with the demands of, perhaps the greatest building boom in history persistently outstripping efforts to find enough labor and materials to meet them so far.

Born of five years of war-shifted populations and diverted manpower and building materials, it is a situation which has no magic answer.

Harassed by a clamor from every corner of the country, the government can only lay emphasis upon the basic factor that "there is a straight physical limitation—every man available, every bit of material available, is being used."

From the varied departments concerned, still these statements on a shortage that pinches as much the towns of New Brunswick as the cities of Montreal and Toronto:—

1. Bluntly, in all probability, there still will be a housing shortage a year hence.

2. In the incipient stages of reconstruction, home construction, particularly for returning veterans, has top priority. Rid of all restrictions, now getting every possible governmental help, the labor and supply markets are lifting themselves from the barren levels of wartime but the terrific building backlog rooted in the depression and in the war, consistently outstrip them both.

3. That backlog demand, linked with steadily dwindling shortage, will undoubtedly make 1946 a construction year without parallel.

4. The pressure inherent in that backlog will last a "long time"—nobody will flirt with even rough estimates on the time factor—but, said Reconstruction Minister Howe recently: "I am confident that within the next few months the difficulties builders are meeting will be largely overcome."

5. Certain building materials, particularly hardwood flooring and finishing lumber will "remain scarce for some time." But the "key to increased production rests in the flow of labor." Said Mr. Howe: "The construction industry, normally our largest employer of labor, now has only a small fraction of its usual complement." But its payrolls, swelling with discharged servicemen and transferred war workers, are growing weekly.

With all these obstacles, however, only 1928 can compare with the pace of building now proceeding in Canada. Government predictions, after toying with various qualifications and figures, have boiled down to Mr. Howe's statement that "it now appears we shall come close to (building) or beginning 50,000 housing units in 1945 and we may even surpass that."

RAILWAY RADAR

The first application of radar components to a railway communication system will be made on the Rock Island Lines, according to advice received at headquarters of the Canadian National Railways in Winnipeg. The Rock Island radar-type radio communication system will embody important developments designed by the Sperry Gyroscope Company for military and naval radar operations and only recently released by the U.S. Government.

An Awful Life

Doctor Stranded On An Island With Many Women

Many men think it would be highly romantic to be cast away on a Pacific island with a hundred maidens.

Not so Dr. C. A. Derode, who was one of 12 men in Tjeding camp on Batavia where the Japanese concentrated some 10,000 Dutch and English women and children.

The doctor is happily married and has two small daughters—and his wife was with him—so being surrounded by so many females didn't stir his pulse one bit. If anything, it bored him and he looks back upon the whole experience as one long nightmare.

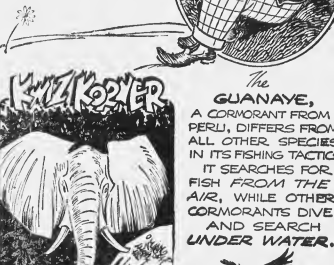

"It was an awful life—being among so many women," said the tall, blond young Dutch physician. "But it wasn't so bad for me as it was for my wife. Many of the other women were jealous because they didn't have their husbands with them—and some made things difficult for my wife."

NOT WRITING NOW

Newsweek says former Prime Minister Churchill will not write any books or articles for the time being because it might injure his political position. OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

HER BOY

By SYLVIA ENDLER

Copyright
Wheeler Newspaper Syndicate

Every ten minutes or so, Ed Larraine, the station-agent would announce the time. Now he said: "A. L. folks, twenty minutes more and she'll be here." "She" was the train, and in that mob, Ed was the only one to whom the arrival of the train was perhaps as important as the fact that P. L. L. Thos. N. Cartwright, D.F.C., the hero, was coming home on the 5:15 to this little town—his home.

Larry stood waiting as they all were for Tommy—the tip of her nose shiny. Her friends had long ago given up reminding her to powder it, and besides they all agreed it added to that look of eager young girl, head of hers.

People said: "Yes, Tommy was always a fine boy," and she smiled. People forgot so quickly. Was it only four, five years ago that he had been the town hero? People then said: "Tommy... yes, but" and now they had all turned out to know him.

She'd often thought about Tommy when she read about boys awarded medals. Were there among them, boys like Tommy? Rough and tough boys who prided themselves on their toughness? Boys about whom soldiers prophesied smugly, "He'll come to no good end?" Now she knew there were such boys. The story had been on the front pages of the newspapers, how his plane had been tipped almost to shreds, but he stayed to force down the enemy and then went down himself together with his ship. And the people in the little town were surprised. "Whoever could have thought?"

THE PERFECT CURTAIN DYES

Emily, for one, could have thought. The others knew the wild, destructive boy. They could not of course, know the boy that came rescue when a dog was run over. They could not know a scared, unhappy child who couldn't fit in because he couldn't control wild impulses to run off to sea, to ride freights, to fight and even to steal.

She remembered when Tommy came over one day with an aeroplane he had made. "Mm" she said, "It's very good... where did you get the material?" Her question was casual yet she saw a hunted look. Slowly it came out—he could not lie—that he had walked into Blake's Pharmacy and the money was just that amount to buy the wing parts for his plane. And he took it. He was sure no one would miss the money, because if they needed it why did they leave it lying around?

Then she had been angry with him—with his anger close through Tommy might be wild but always before he had possessed a sort of grim honour. It was Tommy who broke Mr. Carter's window one Monday when the gang was playing boy, but he stayed behind to admit it and say that he didn't mean to break it, but if they didn't believe him, he was glad he broke it and to hell! Mr. Carter, crochety and old, never said anything and after a while the town stopped wondering why.

Breaking windows was one thing, and stealing another. Emily could hardly control her voice. "You stole the money! Wasn't there anyone who could lend it to you? You could have asked me. Why couldn't you earn it?" Of all the low, sneaky things... The next day he went to Mr. Blake, explained about the money and got a job in the drugstore. He was not proud nor ashamed of what he had done. He had made a mistake, and this was his way of correcting it.

He worked all that winter and the next. She encouraged him to build more planes with the money. He began studying mechanics and aerodynamics and his model planes won first prize in a contest. People were beginning to realize that there was something about Tommy that set him apart, and above the ordinary boy. They were finding excuses for him. "Well, you really couldn't blame him for being so wild..." He turned into a fine boy, but... The "but" was the eager, restless, driving urge within Tommy that was still not satisfied.

Emily looked up to see Mr. Carter, and her surprise was such that it was only with an effort that she controlled her face. Mr. Carter who never went anywhere without a cane, there, tall and saturnine as ever, leaning on his cane.

"Quite a turnout," he was saying sardonically. And then, surprisingly, his face wasn't sardonious anymore, but he was very proud, as he said and looked away before she could recover. And then Ed Larraine called out: "Seven more minutes. She'll be here soon," and she knew she must be alone, to savour that proud moment by herself.

Some lines from the last letter from Tommy flashed into her mind. "...I will probably not be writing for some time, so don't worry about me. I shall have a great deal to write with the men..." and I want you to know that anything good that has ever come to me and anything worthwhile I shall ever do will be because of you.

Suddenly there was Tommy, thinner and paler, and his eyes were meeting hers. Then he was on the platform, surrounded by the mob, smiling timidly, kissing his mother who had never understood him—and Emily turned to leave in a mist of tears. She knew people were replying to strangers: "Who? Oh, that's Miss Bailey... the 7th grade teacher... wonderful with children..." too many people married Tommy, looking into his eyes... she's all of 46. Emily fiercely dashed a hand across her eyes as she stumbled across the platform to the road that would take her home. How proud she would be called upon to fly as many as 30 different types of machines, each of which they must qualify themselves to fly by passing an examination based on the model's own book of instructions that may contain up to 700 pages.

Diversified Crops Grow In Southern Alberta Under Irrigation

The Saskatchewan government has sanctioned its intention of supporting by every means possible, irrigation projects in that province which the Dominion Government through the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Association, is planning. Irrigation naturally develops special crops and indicative of developments in this direction are the acreage and production figures from irrigation projects in Southern Alberta, which have been gathered by the Department of Colonization and Agriculture, Canadian National Railways. This year in Southern Alberta, it is estimated that 30,000 acres of sugar beets will return $3,780,000; potatoes and cabbage, 6,000 acres, value $600,000; vegetable canning crops, 8,000 acres, $500,000; seed peas and bean crops, 12,000 acres, $400,000; picking cucumbers, 157 acres, $50,000; commercial mustard, 20,000 acres, $200,000. All but the commercial mustard were grown under irrigation.

Night Watchman: "Here, what are you doing to that door?"

Burglar: "It's like this: I found a door key, I'm testing the door because I want to return this key to its rightful owner."

Hubby: "You never tell me what you're doing!"

Wife: "Certainly, darling! You get the invoice."

Teacher: Give me a sentence containing a direct object.

Donald: Teacher, you are very beautiful.

Teacher: What's the object?

Donald: A good grade.

Mickey: I didn't want any more flour like you sold me last week.

Grocer: What was the matter with it?

Mickey: It was so tough my husband couldn't eat the biscuits I made with it.

Private Jones: Someone told me today that I was the handsomest man in the camp.

Private Brown: That's not incurable.

Private Jones: What do you mean?

Private Brown: The habit you have to talking to yourself.

Inviting a friend to his wedding anniversary, an Irishman explained: "We're on the seventh floor, Apartment D. Just touch the button with your elbow."

"And why should I use my elbow?"

"Well for heaven's sake! You're not coming empty-handed, are you?"

MacPherson took his gramophone back to the shop.

Said the assistant: "It is most unusual to have a machine returned after a year's use. What's wrong with it?"

"The needle's broken," explained MacPherson.

"I have a terrible rumbling on my stomach. It's like a wagon going over a bridge."

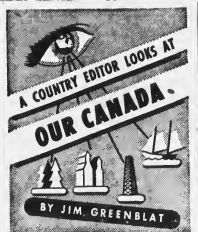

"It's most likely that truck that you ate this morning for breakfast."

"I hadn't been talking to the fellow for more than five minutes when he called me an ass."

"What caused the delay?"

Airmen who ferry planes usually know more about aircraft in general than other pilots because they are called upon to fly as many as 30 different types of machines, each of which they must qualify themselves to fly by passing an examination based on the model's own book of instructions that may contain up to 700 pages.

Deep thinking by The Pas (Man.) Northern Mail: "This struggle has shown man's ability to destroy man on a large scale than ever before. This struggle has shown how inter-dependent the peace-loving nations are and it has shown too that God reaches to save and preserve His men of Goodwill."

Returned prisoner from Hong Kong, Pte. John D. No matter how well things may be ordered in the post-war world, most of us will have to work if all of us are to eat, apply suggests the Stettler Independent. That's one thing about the pioneers—they never expected to eat if they didn't work, and sometimes they worked hard and ate scanty.

Canada has a great resource in its fruit and berries and if you don't believe it, read this little item from the Penitence, B.C. Herald: "Shipments of peaches to the fresh fruit market have caused all previous records with the total going over 1,100,000 crates. This is about 100,000 better than the record for high-toned peaches. The deal is taking another 500,000 crates so the total crop is about 1,600,000. All peaches should be 'on wheels' by the end of this week as it is stated by the B.C. Tree Fruits Limited, which this week announced the new record."

Last week we boasted of some old fruit, new look what T. A. Nicholson of the Dauphin, Man., district got off two acres sown to five bushels of certified Ester seed, a new variety. Just 203 bushels.

Making flying a profession now: Regular air shipments of fresh fish from Prince Edward Island will operate within a few weeks, if plans of three former R.C.A.F. members are carried out. They plan to make 20 round trips monthly.

Canada has a Boys' Town doing just as good work as the one immortalized by Mickey Rooney and Spencer Tracy. On the shores of Lac Francaise, near Joliette, Que., 60 delinquent boys are established under direction of Father Albert Forger of Montreal. The Junior Chamber of Commerce at Montreal handles the expenses of the boys, which comes to about $1 a day for the three-month camp period, during which the boys elect their own mayor, council, police force, etc. This idea should pay rich dividends in citizenship.

NO LONGER LUXURIES Small fruits, once regarded as imported luxuries in southern Alberta, are now bringing farmers on the rugged lands in the Leithbridge territory tens of thousands of dollars annually. In spite of labor shortage last year, one Barnwell district farmer claimed he harvested and sold $3,000 worth of strawberries from a patch only a little larger than two acres.

Aerial Highway

Will Continue Staging Route To Alaska East Of Rockies

Air Minister Gibson announced that the R.C.A.F. will continue operation of the northwest staging route, the aerial highway to Alaska east of the Rocky mountains, as an interim arrangement.

No final decision on future operation of this Canadian section of the short air route to Asia and Europe has yet been made. Mr. Gibson said in a statement.

"It is an interim policy which will protect the assets already created along the route and assure its availability for domestic and international air services whenever regular services may be started by civil air lines."

The Edmonton-Whitehorse-Snag air route, over which thousands of airplanes and thousands of tons of supplies for Russia and for defence of North America were flown, was built and was completed during the early years of the war. In 1942 and 1943 it aided the successful defence against Japanese intentions in the Aleutian islands and the Alaska mainland.

Northwest air command of the R.C.A.F. with headquarters at Edmonton, has full control of operation and maintenance of the airfield and flight strips at Grand Prairie, Bettin River, Fort St. John, Fort Nelson, South River, Waton Lake, Teslin, Whitehorse, Ashikish and Snag.

The aerodrome at Edmonton is operated by the transport department as well as radio ranges and meteorological installations.

Canada owns "all installations of continuing value" along the route, built at a cost to Canada of $76,000,000.

Personnel for operation of the route once reached a wartime peak of 2,700, but now has been reduced to 1,500. There will be considerable further reduction for peacetime operation.

SELECTED RECIPES

Apples are now in many markets for homemakers to use in apple desserts and for canning apple sauce. Apple sauce, whether fresh or canned, lends itself to a number of interesting variations. Popular in some homes is apple sauce flavoured with cinnamon or nutmeg, giving it a darker color and spicy flavor. Baked apples can be filled with raisins, sprinkled over honey and are delicious with prepared bran cereal sprinkled over the top. Apple Betty and other apple desserts enjoy a deserved popularity during summer apple season. Here is a recipe which uses these early apples to advantage. Ingredients include only small amounts of sugar and shortening.

APPLE CRISP PUDDING

4 cups sliced apples
1 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup honey
1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups toasted bread cubes
1 1/2 cups corn flakes
Mix apples with combined sugar, spices and honey. Turn into greased shallow baking pan. Blend shortening and sugar; add eggs and flavoring; beat well. Mix with bread cubes and corn flakes and spread over apples. Bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 40 to 45 minutes or until apples are tender and top is browned. Yield: Six servings (1 1/2 x 9-inch pan or 8 1/2-inch round casserole).

Corporal Maurer

Osaki camp, where they remained for two and a half years. The Japanese he described as a sadistic race who took fateful delight in humiliating and beating their white prisoners. He told of how the Japanese had gone to the extent of publishing the story of having conquered all territory west of the Mississippi.

He told of the prisoners becoming impatient at their armies' progress towards Japan and wondered just what was going on. One day they received the news of the Allies crossing the Channel and knew that it was just a matter of time before pressure would be exerted in greater degree on Japan.

The bombing of Japan became more frequent in March, 1945, and they were moved from one place to another, always, however, near some military target, which was soon blown to smithereens by huge U.S. bombers.

He told of the amazing advancement made in advanced U.S. bases in the Pacific. What he once saw as almost pure jungle when he first arrived in the Pacific was now modern cities, with every modern convenience. He credited this to the civilians who had invested their money in war bonds, thus making possible the U.S. government's policy of building up the Pacific bases. As a parting shot he asked all present in the light of what he had seen and experienced in the Pacific to buy Victory bonds and thus bring back the soldiers to their homes and help re-establish them once again in civilian life.

Unit Organizer Aboussafy made an appeal for all local citizens to maintain their proud record in the purchase of Victory bonds. He stated that despite the fact the shooting was finished there still remained a gigantic task of bringing home Canada's armed personnel, of helping them get rehabilitated, of giving them their gratuities, of establishing export credits to destitute European countries so that they might be in a position to buy our surplus goods and thus build up export markets.

Canada, he stated, in order to prosper must have world markets for her surplus goods. Only by this means could she have a permanent prosperity.

Patriotism, he remarked, could never die, Canada had been roused to a high degree of patriotism when the war had been going against the Allied Nations. Now that the shooting had ended that patriotism would be present to see that Canadian soldiers would be given a fair chance in establishing themselves once again in civilian life.

The canvassers, he stated, would be soliciting each home starting Monday and he urged all to double up on their Eighth Victory Loan purchases, pointing out that the ninth loan was on a twelve-month basis and that the same monthly payments that prevailed in the eighth would be twice as much in the ninth loan as the payments have an additional six months to run.

Tests PROVE this WATER SYSTEM IS Built to Last!

When you buy a water system, you want it to give dependable, trouble-free service for many years. Tests made by an independent, unbiased laboratory prove that this Fairbanks-Morse piston-type, automatic Water System is built to last. Operated continuously under conditions which speed normal wear, it ran twice as long as the combined break-down runs of four others. This shallow well system comes to you complete, ready to connect to your supply and distribution pipe lines. You can Piston leathers, easily replaced through pump casing end plug.

Removable connecting rod head permits easy correction for wear.

Seal holds oil in and keeps dirt out.

Alley crosshead, precision-machined.

Large bearing on each end of large-diameter crankshaft.

service it easily yourself. Has a heavy-duty motor rather than one designed for intermittent use. Built in two sizes—400 and 580 gallons per hour actual delivery capacity (not a mere displacement rating).

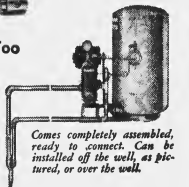

Exclusive Crankshaft Prolongs Pump Life

Fairbanks-Morse is the only water system manufacturer using hardened and ground crankshafts—one reason why this piston-type pump is so long-lived.

Because of precision machining Fairbanks-Morse replacement parts bought thirty years from now will fit perfectly.

A Deep Well System, Too

For water lifts of 22 to 70 feet, this combination piston-ejector system remains high pumping efficiency even at the higher pressures, with minimum power consumption. Its pump is the long-lived one described above. The ejector assembly adapts that pump to deep well service, has no moving parts below ground.

Comes completely assembled, ready to connect. Can be installed off the well, as pictured, or over the well.
